

GEORGE ROBINSON
KITCHEN & FINE FURNITURE MAKERS

At George Robinson Kitchens, we combine traditional construction techniques with the highest quality materials, components and finishes to create bespoke kitchens and fine furniture that will last for generations.

“My great-grandfather was also called George Robinson, and I have his name tag on the toolbox I use today. He was a master carpenter and made many of his own tools; they are as good now as they were a hundred years ago.

This influenced my concern for the environment, which is an integral part of my working philosophy. We use wood from sustainable forests as much as we can and opt for the most energy-efficient appliances. Taking care of and handing on our tools is a great way to reduce our environmental footprint, but by creating durable kitchens and furniture that is built to last as an inheritance to future generations, I feel that I am able to make a tangible difference that I feel truly proud of.

I enjoy the sense of continuity that a traditionally manufactured kitchen gives me, but equally love the simplicity and functionality of a truly contemporary design. In George Robinson Kitchens, both will be built to the highest standards, demonstrating both the passion and the commitment that my colleagues and I bring to our work.”

We don't just stop at kitchens and furniture, we can design and build beautiful interiors for any space in your home or garden. We frequently manage entire projects, working with our customers to create a coordinated look throughout the home.

AZIVAL KITCHEN

George worked closely with both the customers and their architect in order to perfect the design of this contemporary Birch Plywood kitchen. Together, the group visited a local boutique hotel that the architect had worked on, drawing inspiration from its interior design features. Elements of the materials and colour palette from the hotel provided the core building blocks for the concept of the Azival Kitchen, and once combined with GRK influences this incredible space took shape.

Both customers love to cook and with this in mind, George’s design focussed on the creation of a highly practical and functional kitchen with contemporary clean lines and hand finishing. He also took great care to ensure that the design linked seamlessly with the surrounding living space.

VALERINHO KITCHEN

This stunning London Townhouse is bursting with light thanks to its glazed ceiling, creating a bright and fresh environment for a beautiful bespoke kitchen. The Rangemaster Elise cooker provides a focal point in the design, framed with a solid bespoke overmantle, and finished with a tiled vintage glass splashback.

Soft silver tones in the splashback are echoed throughout the space in many of the finishing touches, including the chrome pull handles and knobs, stainless steel refrigerator, and of course the fixtures on the Range cooker itself.

Cabinets were finished by hand in Farrow and Ball Parma Grey, and this colour contrasts beautifully with the warm accents of natural wood, featured boldly on the front of the overmantle and again more subtly in a sweet little oil nook, which is conveniently tucked away in the recess above the cooker.

Sustainable Birch plywood was combined with locally sourced sycamore and hand-carved walnut wood to create the cabinetry. A variety of low-energy appliances were chosen, including a versatile and eco-friendly Quooker hot water tap in the main kitchen.

PEMBROKE LODGE

With its resplendent green cabinetry and the warm tones of natural wood, the kitchen we designed and manufactured for Pembroke Lodge remains a firm favourite. Its styling is extremely classic and simple, creating a highly versatile family space which is immersed in natural light thanks to the vaulted skylight and wall of windows overlooking the sea.

The kitchen's bold cabinet colour, (Invisible Green by Little Greene) is offset by the white walls and Silestone snowy Ibiza worktops. Oak wood flooring and an oak worktop for the expansive kitchen island add great warmth, completing the natural palette.

This beautiful Bespoke Kitchen was part of a broad renovation project at Pembroke Lodge in Newlyn, where GRK also designed a bespoke utility room and bespoke fitted wardrobes for the owners. This property has been featured in House and Garden, Vogue, The Times and The Sunday Times Style, and can be rented via Boutique Retreats.

WRITER'S KITCHEN

This charming and playful kitchen was the result of a wonderful collaboration with celebrated author and interior design expert Katherine Sorrell. To create the foundation for this flowing and multi-faceted space, a wall was knocked through between two rooms, allowing us to realise an unusual and bountifully detailed open-plan kitchen/diner.

George was mindful to harness the gentle light flowing inward from the gorgeous sash windows and high ceilings of this Victorian home. He hand-finished the kitchen cabinetry in soft and illuminating Farrow & Ball Cornforth White, providing a perfect contrast to the solid wood open shelving that Katherine filled so creatively. As you can see, no detail is without thought, down to the perfectly paired Scandi-style pendant lamp, which was sourced locally.

SYCAMORE KITCHEN

This highly engaging coastal project resulted in a warm and welcoming solid wood design that makes fantastic use of natural colour and light. Due to the kitchen's location on the third floor of an enchanting 1920s seafront property, George and his team were posed with the dual challenges of navigating somewhat tricky access and maximising an interior with unusually low ceilings.

A combination of bespoke top cabinets, which are shorter than typical, and thoughtfully integrated appliances and storage allow the owner to enjoy a clutter-free environment that creates an impression of abundant space. Thanks to the natural wood floor and beautiful solid sycamore carpentry, the inviting combination of wood shades makes this kitchen as tranquil as it is elegant.

- Stainless steel splashback
- Victorian pull handles in 32mm satin nickel
- Perrin & Rowe Oberon C spout tap
